

Boost Threatened In Fire Insurance Rates for Marion

New Equipment and More Firemen Needed, Underwriters Say.

POSSIBILITY that Marion's fire insurance rates may rise sharply today in the announcement that arrangements have been made for the National Board of Fire Underwriters to make a study in all phases of the city's fire protection facilities.

The Ohio Inspection Bureau at Columbus, state affiliate of the board, has complained to city officials for several years concerning the condition of Marion's equipment and also concerning the number of the fire department.

Marion is now in Class 4 for fire insurance rates. A jump to Class 3 would mean an additional cost in fire insurance premiums of $10,000 a year and a jump to Class 2 an additional premium of somewhere around $40,000 a year, officials here estimate.

Aim To Avoid Raise

Mayor Snare and other city officials already have taken steps to see what can be done to improve fire department facilities to a point where the insurance board will not demand an increase in rates.

Preliminary estimates of the cost of such changes range around $100,000 for equipment alone. Chief McGraw estimates six more firemen would be needed to bring the department up to par. Their salaries would run about $10,000 a year.

Financing of such improvements is the problem facing the city. The regular operating funds could not

FINLAND STILL HOLDS VIIPURI

All Day Battle Before City Leaves Defenders in Possession of Port.

By The Associated Press
HELSINKI, March 5—The Finnish defenders of Viipuri, after fighting all day yesterday with Russians attacking the islands of the bay of Viipuri, still were in control of the city.

The Finnish high command announced in its daily communiqué.

The invading Russians were attempting to encircle the city, long deserted by civilians and considered virtually lost even by the Finns themselves.

In addition to attacking the islands in the bay, the Reds attacked the northwest shore of the city from where they presumably could drive overland against Viipuri from the rear.

Reds Not Yet In City

"On the isthmus enemy attacks against the islands in the bay of Viipuri and the northwest shore of the city continued all day," said the communiqué.

Fighting continued on the capes at the mouth of the bay. At all points attacks were repulsed.

Although fighting was heavy on the isthmus of Viipuri, Finnish sources maintained that Soviet troops had not yet entered the city proper.

The Russian communiqué on yesterday's activity said the Soviet troops had captured several towns on the western shore of the bay of Viipuri as well as islands in the bay.

The Finns "dropped bombs on the enemy machine-gun fire and on the columns and troops of the enemy," the communiqué said.

Attacks Beaten Back

The Russians attacked between the islands of Viipuri and the isthmus of the Vuoksi delta and between the islands of Viipuri and the isthmus of the Vuoksi delta, but were beaten back, although fighting continued all day. Artillery was reported from the eastern end of the Manner line.

British Report Nazi Sub Sunk by Raiding Plane

By The Associated Press
LONDON, March 5—Stroke and sink the submarine in the struggle for control of the seas today matched a report of the probable destruction of a German submarine by a British merchantman and a British submarine.

The British merchantman and submarine were off the coast of the Elbe river in the night, was reported last night by the air ministry to have been hit by a direct hit on a submarine at the surface of shallow water.

Bombs were dropped, one registered a direct hit on the conning tower and another on the hull, said a ministry announcement.

Perhaps, another German submarine was added to the half-dozen submarines which, according to unofficial estimate, were sent to the bottom by British action in the half-year.

Board Starts Hunt For New City School Head

Arranges To Send Notices To Possible Applicants; Members To Submit Lists.

The Marion board of education took its first step to select a new superintendent for the city schools at a monthly meeting yesterday afternoon at the administration building.

By unanimous vote it was decided that within the next 10 days individual members of the board shall compile lists of school men to be notified by letter of the opening in the Marion superintendency and asking that if they wish to confer with the board regarding the position they do so within 30 days. The board further agreed that these notifications should constitute a closed invitation to applicants.

Other board business included hiring of a custodian for the North Main street building to fill a vacancy left by the death last Friday of Charles W. Crook, naming of a successor to the former Miss Eva Byers, who recently resigned as secretary at the Thomas A. Edison Junior High school; granting of a leave of absence to Miss Maurita Yeagle of the Glenwood school faculty; payment of current bills totaling $4,873.87; acceptance of the financial report of the Harding High school 1939 football season, showing a balance of $452.05 on Jan. 29, and acceptance of the annual report of the Marion public library.

Action on steps toward selecting successor to Suplt. C. A. Hudson was taken following presentation of a motion by Clerk J. D. Torrance, which was seconded by Frank Robinson. It was unanimously adopted.

A question by Dr. F. L. Thomas as to what qualifications the board members are to consider in interviewing candidates led to the discussion which brought the motion and the board's action.

Soon after the discussion started Superintendent Hudson excused himself from the board room and shortly afterwards he left the building.

Six Already Considered

At least six candidates already have talked with board members regarding the position, which will be vacant in the summer in accordance with an agreement entered into between Suplt. Hudson and the 1939 board and reaffirmed at the first meeting this year of the present board.

All members of the board said they had been contacted by school men interested in the position. Clerk Torrance said he had compiled a list of 28 prospective men from contacts with university men, school men and individuals.

After examining the list, which contained names of several men from all parts of the state, board members said that at least three of the men listed already had talked with them.

It was generally agreed that the new superintendent should be between 40 and 50 years of age, with a year or two leeway either way, that his experience should be such that he could efficiently operate a school system of approximately 6,000 children, that he should have a personality which would enable him to make himself popular with all classes of people, and that he be a man "on his way up in the profession, not one who has leveled off at the peak of his abilities or who has started the slide downward in the profession."

Dr. R. T. Morgan said his chief qualification would be "An honest man to God school man who will come in and go to work."

Many in Night

Mr. Torrance in presenting his motion predicted there probably would be "at least 50" candidates for the job and backed his suggestion of a closed invitation by saying "that in the past there will be some who will not come in and go to work."

He said the board would not exclude good men set on the list but would strive to eliminate those who the board would not be interested in.

President Harry J. Barnhart said that if any member should have a good man who had not been included on the list the proper thing would be to come and state his name. "I don't want to see a good man go by," he said.

He said the board would not exclude good men set on the list but would strive to eliminate those who the board would not be interested in.

FLOOD WATERS RECEDE IN OHIO

Only One Highway in Marion County Now Closed; More Rain Forecast.

Swollen streams in Marion county and throughout the state generally receded today with most of the flooded highways being reopened.

Observers eyed the official weather forecast of light snow or rain for Wednesday, hopeful that the flood situation will be alleviated before additional precipitation prolongs the danger.

Route 203, between Prospect and Newmans, was the only state highway in Marion county still closed this morning.

The water was receding rapidly and highway officials reported regular traffic probably will be resumed late today.

Nearly 4-Foot Drop

At Prospect the Scioto river level dropped from last night's peak of 18 feet to 12.5-foot stage at 10 a. m. today, Dave Ford, river observer reported. When the river recedes to the 8.5-foot stage at Prospect, route 203 will be clear of water, Observer Ford said.

Traffic was resumed today on other state highways which had been blocked by high water. Route 95, in the vicinity of Agosta, and route 30-8, east of Calceonia, which was covered by six inches of water, were clear today. State route 203, south of Big Island, still was flooded but the water had receded enough to permit regular traffic.

Danger Spots

In northern Ohio the Sandusky and Maumee rivers remained at danger points. The Sandusky, nearing the 13-foot flood stage at Fremont, forced families on lower street levels to move out. An ice gorge threatened the hydro-electric plant a mile south of Fremont.

Merchants In Grand Rapids, Wood county, moved stocks from floors and lower shelves. Lowlands near Waterville were flooded and at least eight families prepared to evacuate. The river rose 10 feet.

SIX PERSONS SAVED

Survivors Tell Story of Fatal Boat Ride in High Waters.

Dozens of volunteer searchers probed the muddy flood waters of the Scioto river south of Agosta this morning for the body of nine-year-old Donald Eugene Thaxton, victim of a boat ride for fun yesterday afternoon that ended in tragedy.

Virtually all hope of finding Donald alive was abandoned last night when, as darkness fell, six hours had passed since he had last been seen, splashing his arms in the water in an effort to keep himself afloat while the swift current carried him rapidly out of sight of the six other persons who narrowly escaped a similar fate.

Searchers figured that even if Donald had managed to keep afloat, he would have succumbed to exposure and the near-freezing temperatures of the water. Most persons in the hunt believed he was drowned. He was unable to swim. This made little difference, however, because when he was dumped into the water when a rowboat struck a bridge, he was wearing a heavy sheepskin coat, heavy overboots and so much other bulky clothing that even an accomplished swimmer similarly clothed could not have remained afloat more than a few minutes.

Community Watches Search

All Agosta and the countryside within a wide radius dropped routine tasks this morning to await a report from the searching parties. The first news of any consequence came at 8 a. m. shortly after the searchers had resumed their efforts after halting for the night. This was the discovery of the death boat, capsized but still floating, within a few hundred feet of the bridge on the Mt. Olive road a mile and a half south of Agosta where the mishap occurred. The boat had been swept out of the swift current into the backlog of water just east of the bridge, and was partially hidden in the branches of trees. The water around the bridge was so deep that all low branches of trees were submerged, hampering the searchers and delaying the discovery of the boat until this morning.

Search at Various Points

Many of the searchers, after watching the speed with which the current flowed under the bridge, felt convinced that Donald's body had been carried far downstream. Others with grappling hooks felt the body, like the boat, might have drifted into slow-moving waters out of the line of the current, and centered their search in the inundated fields within a few hundred feet of the bridge.

While the searching parties pressed on, five schoolmates of Donald who narrowly escaped from the death boat were the center of attention at Agosta school, where they returned to their classes after a holiday yesterday. School buses could not make their rounds yesterday to pick up pupils because several roads were closed by high water.

The five boys, together with 56-year-old Emmanuel Hecker, Donald's grandfather, were in the boat when it struck the bridge and capsized. They picked up the full story of the circumstances that led to the fatal ride.

A Boy Off From School

Donald's youthful companions in the boat ride were Russell Morthland, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morthland of Agosta; Donald Tucker, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brady Tucker of north of Agosta; Ward Chapman, 14, and Neil Chapman, 12, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Chapman of Agosta; and Dirk Persinger, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Persinger of Agosta. Since there was no school yesterday, the five boys met and decided to go down to the Scioto river, which is a mile and a half south of Agosta. On the way they had to pass the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hecker, the grandparents with whom Donald made his home. Donald and his friends were overheard by the farmer watching the flood waters.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge and Lillian Find Edith in Mental Turmoil.

WE HAD an interminable wait for the end of my father's interview with the intruder. The guard came back with the log from almost as soon as we had reached the hall, and when he came out again with the others he had a message for us.

"The Chief just said this will take some time," he said. "He says there's no use all of you staying in the hall near here. If he wants anybody, he'll ring his bell, and then the one who's staying here can find out if he wants the rest of you. But he wants you to be where you can get back into his room in five minutes."

"Thank you," Harry Underwood answered. "We'll arrange things."

Before speaking again he waited until the guards were out of hearing. Then he said hesitatingly.

"Have you any idea what this is all about?"

We were all silent, equally puzzled. I fancied, until Lillian spoke, that Leslie involved?

"It's probably a far-fetched notion, but I can't get it out of my head that the fellow is one of Leslie's ruffians."

Her husband struck a flint into the palm of his other hand.

"I think you've struck it. But—here's the question: Was he really coming with a message, or was that simply an excuse framed up when he was caught in order to camouflage his real intention of blowing up the house, setting fire to the brush or shooting somebody?"

His voice was light, but I knew that all of the dread possibilities he had envisaged were passing through his mind.

"One thing's certain," Dicky drawled. "We don't know anything about it until Dad tells us and it's perfectly futile to guess. So why don't you girls wander away and attend to anything that's calling for you, while old Harry and I sit on the nest here and watch for signals?"

Lillian took me by the arm and impelled me to the other end of the corridor.

"Au revoir," she said. "It must be nice to have nothing on your alleged minds which needs attention."

Unexpected Sight

She wrinkled her nose at him as she flung the globe, and then rushed me down the hall, not heeding the laughing retort which her husband sent after her. We turned the corner and then she slowed down and stooped to the balcony outside the nursery. As we stood on the threshold I stepped back involuntarily, for Edith Fairfax was sitting beside the carriage in which Faith was taking a nap, and there was such stark hunger and suffering in her face as she watched the child that it seemed indecent to let her know that we had been her.

Lillian nudged a hand behind her for me to get back farther. Then she spoke casually, for she knew as well as I that Edith would not care one-tenth so much for Lillian's scrutiny of her naked emotions as she would for mine.

"Hello, Edith," she said. "Where's Katharine?"

Edith started violently and, turning, looked beyond Lillian, fearing that I was around.

"She's outdressed with Junior and Frederick," she said. "I told her I'd watch Faith while she slept. Isn't she adorable?"

Dubious Peace

"She's all right, and then some," Lillian acquiesced heartily.

"Where's Madge?" Edith asked meekly.

"She caught, to be along any minute," Lillian returned. Waiting another half-second until I felt that she had time to pull herself together, I stepped across the balcony threshold.

"Hello, Edith," I said easily. "I told Lillian we ought to find somebody out here. I hope you're feeling better."

"Yes, thank you," she returned. "It's wonderful out here, so peaceful—"

"Yes," Lillian glibbed, "right under the shadow of the machine guns."

Edith shivered slightly, then lifted her head.

"That can you imagine where those machine guns might have been if you hadn't given me shelter? And that reminds me, Madge. I must talk to you about that soon. I can't stay indefinitely as a burden on you. I must go away."

To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money Easily Mixed

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds when you try this simple recipe. It gives you about four times as much relief as any other remedy and costs only a few cents.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Flax (obtained from any drugstore) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of the home that will answer you by its quick action. It never upsets a family in any time and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membrane and quickly cures soreness and difficult breathing.

Flax is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guarol, in concentrated form, well known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

INCREASE SHOWN IN EARLY TAX RETURNS

Income Listings in Marion Ahead of Last Year.

Whether Marionites made more money last year is uncertain but the income tax men in the post office basement report that there are a considerably greater number of returns this year than at this date last year.

Very likely the new public employees taking a 10 percent raise in city county and school employees to file returns has a bearing on the increase they said.

In view of the increase in the number of residents of Marion and vicinity to come in as soon as possible to avoid the big rush which is almost certain to come before the deadline of midnight, March 15. The office opens at 4 o'clock and remains open through the noon hour.

R. K. Albre of Columbus deputy collector of internal revenue who arrived here Friday has been joined by Joseph H. Luebbers of Cincinnati revenue agent in the work of assisting Marionites in making out their returns.

It is expected 1800 or 1800 will be filed from Marion and vicinity this year compared with an average of about 1200 in previous years.

Your Income Tax

Deductions for losses Other Than from Sale or Exchange of Capital Assets

Deductions for losses are divided into four classes and to be allowed must follow closely the wording of the income tax law. Losses are deductible if incurred (1) in the taxpayer's trade, business or profession (2) in any transaction entered into for profit (3) from fires, storms, shipwreck or other casualties or from theft and (4) from wagering transactions.

Business losses result usually from the purchase and sale of merchandise. Such losses usually are ascertained by means of the auditor's report which is required whenever in the course of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue's income tax returns are filed.

The term "trade" is defined as a business proposition for profit. For example, a taxpayer purchasing an automobile to be used solely for business purposes and which is sold at a loss is a business transaction from start to finish. A taxpayer's deduction for a loss on the sale of an automobile is not allowed if the automobile was used for pleasure or convenience. The deduction would not be allowed if it was not a transaction entered into for profit.

A loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is deductible as it falls in class 3. If the cause of faulty driving but not of negligent maintenance, an automobile maintained for pleasure is damaged the taxpayer may claim the loss sustained as it comes within the meaning of the word "casualty". Where damages result from the faulty driving of an automobile with which the taxpayer is engaged in a business, the loss occasioned by the taxpayer's negligence is deductible.

Losses from wagering transactions, whether legal or illegal, are deductible only to the extent of gains from such transactions. The excess of such losses over the gains is not deductible.

All losses are deductible only to the extent to which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise. Deductible capital losses are further subject to the limitations of section 117 as amended.

outside and wood was ere.

Tommy stumbled back to the wall just as the lamp flickered out. She built up the fire and sat on the hearth. Slowly she caught, then with a sudden burst of flame, threw the big room full, rosy light. Tommy looked up and her hand came up to threaten to crush back a scream. Her man was looking down at her. She jumped to her feet and dashed away, then stiffened with rage. Off came her hat and her coat and she stalked forward with sand, hands on hips, chin out. Her gaze focused on a life-sized painting of the late Timothy

"You're responsible for this,"
 said Tom, her voice sounding now in the empty room, "but I'm the one who's going to laugh at this. This is another trick of that damned legal seal of yours, building a fire here so you'd give me a start that would send me hightailing it down the road. Well,
 I'm both wrong. I'm staying

 With you up there no one but a friend would dare come into this room."

Tom felt better after that. She had welcomed a breeze which

A Savajo blanket lay over the arm of a nearby chair. Tomi carried it to the divan and, worn out by excitement, illness and wear, he fell into the deep of physical exhaustion. He was unaware of the man who looked in through the window as dawn came; a white-faced man in a rumpled suit, who sneezed into a handkerchief and limped down the steps, stirring softly.

Sunshine was streaming through the windows when Tomi awakened. For a moment she lay adjusting her mind to the change in physical outlook. She glanced at her wrist and found Great-uncle Timmy laughing down at her. "Good morning," she said pertly. "May I compliment you on your excellent choice of furniture and atrocious taste in wallpaper? I'll fix that."

She hurried to the windows to look out and each obscured by foliage. She swiftly went upstairs and opened the first door to rush out. She was now from there, and she breathed in rapidly.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, March 4.—Twenty-two cities which operate accident prevention bureaus in their police departments had traffic fatality rates 28 per cent lower last year than the rate for the three previous years, the safety division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police reports.

The report showed reduction for all other cities of the nation for the same period.

Loan Business: A Report

FINLAND'S spokesman gravely announces his government will waste no time using up its $20,000,000 credit at the Export-Import bank. "We need men, artillery, planes and ammunition," he explains. Presumably, some of the wheat, corn, lard, gasoline, etc. Finland is permitted to buy in the United States with its borrowed money will be swapped to Great Britain and perhaps France for the things the Finns need.

But meanwhile the Export-Import bank, which counts China as a star client, also will advance a loan of $10,000,000 to Sweden and another of $10,000,000 to Norway for purposes undeclared. Only an astute student of geography will remember that Sweden and Norway are close to Finland and might be able to transship such things as artillery, planes and ammunition to the Finns. Because neither is at war, this would be entirely legal and proper.

James H. Jones, federal loan administrator in charge of these interesting international credit manipulations with other people's money, had an announcement to make last week in another connection. More than 2,000 Reconstruction Finance Corp. loans representing $448,000,000 in principal and interest are in default. In 1933, in fact, RFC suffered a net loss of $45,000,000 on its operations. Its first year in the red since it was established in 1932.

The loan business, as they used to say before Washington got into it, is the process of hiring out money with the expectation of getting back two things—the money and the hire.

Why Have A Census Anyway?

CONTRARY to the present controversial trend, purpose of a census isn't to pump 'em but to count 'em. The Constitution provides for a census every 10 years to find out how many seals each state is entitled to have in the house of representatives.

Yet, the possibility that seals won't be reapportioned isn't causing as much hubbub as the possibility that census enumerators will ask embarrassing questions. It seems to be the forgotten idea. Congress hates reapportionment, because it means some members may lose their jobs. Until the house membership threatened to fill the Yale bowl they dodged responsibility by merely adding more congressmen. In 1920, however, a law was enacted making reapportionment automatic. According to that law, President Roosevelt should have given congress the census figures the first week of last January, but the census hadn't started yet; the law was passed before the lame duck amendment to the Constitution was adopted and the dates were wrong.

Last year Sen. Vandenberg set the dates right with a bill that passed the senate, but the house pigeonholed it. The next congress might take the 1940 figures and reapportion but no one honestly thinks it intends to do anything of the kind. Yet, that is the sole purpose of taking a census. National capacity for getting hot and bothered about the wrong thing is as large as ever.

Breaking Ground

AN OFTEN neglected fact about national labor relations in discussions of the law and its administration is their largely experimental nature. No one, including those who argue to the contrary, knows what will work and what will fail. Experience is teaching its lessons, however.

Within the next five or six weeks something is going to be tried for the first time—mutual consent elections. Largest of these polls will be taken among approximately 125,000 General Motors Corp. employees in 11 different states. Similar elections will be held for employees of Consolidated Edison Co. of New York City and for some of the plants of United States Rubber Co.

In all three cases, the only point unsettled is the outcome of the election. Employers and employees are in agreement, and the latter are seeking nothing except determination of the bargaining status of various unions. Employers, in turn, are pledged in advance to bargain impartially with whatever unions are certified as the proper bargaining agencies for the various plants included in the election.

In mid-July last year the labor relations board ordered that employers thereafter could petition for elections to determine the bargaining agency for their companies. Fifty-two employers have filed petitions for election since then. Five have been disposed of by arrangements for consent elections, one by voluntary recognition of a union, 10 by dismissal, six by withdrawal of the petition, one of transfer of jurisdiction to another regional unit, and 29 are still pending. The three forthcoming elections will break ground in a new field of labor relations.

News Behind the News

Hull, Among Presidential Possibilities, Is Only Man Silent About New Deal.

By PAUL MALLON

Here is the third weekly edition of the "News Behind the News" column. What kind of a president would he make?

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Correll Hull is the only public man—maybe the only person in the United States—who has not taken a public stand on the New Deal. The mystery horse in the 1936 race has functioned actively in the number three pig of this administration for eight years, without expressing his opinions openly on the hot issues of the day.

His position as secretary of state has put an international cloak around him. He has sat at cabinet, close to the inner workings of the reform revolution, without being required to speak out about it, or wanting to. He did not want to because his fixed purpose was the perfection of an international trade agreement abroad, and he was wisely determined to keep both his purpose and himself from getting involved in domestic politics.

But it is possible to gauge what kind of a president he would make by the positions he has taken in private at cabinet, and the warm discussions he has had with his associates at New Deal headquarters. There are herewith presented, I believe, for the first time:

Liberal, But Different

Mr. Hull is of the Woodrow Wilson school of liberalism which is somewhat different from the Franklin Roosevelt college. If he gets into the White House, he will surprise the country. He would, for instance, first bundle Messrs. Corcoran, Cohen, Ickes, Frank and the leftists of the administration in a bag and throw them into eternal oblivion. He has brushed them off his desk occasionally with the back of his hand (his helium scuffle with Ickes). His desk-side comment concerning some of their activities has been caustic. Yapping against business has been particularly painful to him.

Hull is a more orderly liberal. He would oppose spending and unbalanced budgets, but not sweep them away with one sharp stroke. He believes that a positive program of encouragement of capital business expansion is necessary. These lines of thought have not been whipped into definite remedial measures in his mind, but apparently he would go a little further than the administration has gone. A point upon which he has strong personal opinion is the chaotic legal condition of government boards, like the securities exchange commission and the national labor relations board. Neither government nor business now knows what either can do under laws which are so broad as to be unintelligible. If the boards cannot lay down simple rules of conduct which everyone can understand, Hull would move to make their authority specific.

Views on Relief

Relief is another question to which Hull has given some thought. Now a person cannot get relief until he falls off the economic map, and the system keeps him off. Hull thinks regulations should be changed to keep the man on relief ready for any private employment he can get. A distinction has also developed in his mind between needs in cities and rural communities. In his home state, for instance, he foresees the necessity of substituting partial for fulltime relief in most rural cases. This man is no utility buster. He favors the Tennessee Valley authority, but is strongly opposed to its expansion as a national socialistic policy.

His position on agriculture is not yet apparent. Working arrangements lately with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace suggest he might follow the established path. He favors social security, the orthodox liberal doctrine of highest income and surtaxes, and general principles of wages and hours.

Two-Thirds New Dealer

This seems to establish him as about 60-2-3 per cent New Dealer, but a man with ideas of his own. Some third term axemen have been hacking at his liberalism, but his record in congress shows he was the author of the first incentive tax law, voted for child labor laws, federal reserve law, Clayton anti-trust law, federal trade commission act.

For sound or pictures his rating is not the highest. On screen and stump his fixed facial expression and drawing delivery would never inspire revolution, but he is an exceptionally clever public man. The way he worked on congress for renewal of his reciprocal trade agreements this season was worthy of a Roosevelt. Sixty days ago there was a strong senate majority against him. Opposition of the dairy and cattle regions was almost bitter. Through Wallace he lined up the American Farm Bureau Federation, most powerful of farm lobbies. Then he got the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women excited about domestic prices (only remotely connected with the current issue), and they in turn promoted pressure among left wing congressmen.

This turned defeat into what even the Republicans now concede to be apparent victory. His speaking appearance falls by many miles to give an accurate impression of how much he knows, but this may prove a pleasant contrast. He is quick tempered but not impulsive. Practically everyone in Washington likes him, due mainly to respect for his integrity and character. At 60 (he will be 70 in October) he is in excellent health.

Outlook

His chance rests largely with Mr. Roosevelt. He has no organization or national political following like Farley, Garner, or even McNutt. If he is chosen it must be upon Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation or by a compromise between Roosevelt and Farley (who is a good friend of Hull's) and Garner.

His prospects look fairly bright.

Danger from the Air

Officer Reports U. S. Need of Anti-Aircraft Guns.

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON, March 5.—"Today we can be bombed."

"Airplanes exist that can make the round trip from Europe to the United States with a small load of bombs."

"The only rational and effective defense of an objective against night attack is provided by anti-aircraft artillery."

A cluster of such statements has served to demonstrate once more that there is no solid front in the war department about the best way to keep anti-aircraft artillery out of our backs.

If war comes, Preston Grover

Guns Too Small, He Says

The above sentences, and many others, were written by Major Thomas R. Phillips of the coast artillery in an essay published in the Coast Artillery Journal.

Most irksome were Major Phillips' comments about the U. S. three-inch anti-aircraft guns. Too small, was his verdict.

"Ten years ago," he said, "the American anti-aircraft artillery man could report, with justice, that his gun had the bomber stopped. The three-inch gun was effective at altitude well above the capacity of loaded bombers at that time."

"Since then the speed and veiling of bombers has doubled. Loaded bombers can fly at 23,000 feet. Our own air corps is bombing at 22,000 feet more accurately than it was bombing at one-third that altitude 10 years ago. Speed has increased from 100 to 300 miles an hour. Anti-aircraft artillery now being manufactured should be able to cope with a 300-mile-an-hour plane flying between 25,000 and 30,000 feet."

"While aviation has progressed by yearly bounds, American anti-aircraft has devoted itself to refinement of the material of 10 years ago. It no longer can fulfill its mission. Area targets can be bombed from altitudes five to eight thousand feet in excess of the effective range of the three-inch gun."

Major Phillips hammered on the idea that seacoast cities must depend on artillery, not airplanes, for protection.

Planes, he said, can sweep off carriers 300 miles out at sea, to bomb coastal cities before defense planes can get into the air to stop them.

Our anti-aircraft coast defense cannot be supplied by interceptor aviation," he said.

On the contrary, he reported, experience in the Spanish and Chinese wars had demonstrated that artillery can disrupt bombing operations, even though the toll of planes is not high. He cited an attack of a Chinese squadron against a Japanese aircraft carrier conveyed by destroyers. All ships massed their fire on the planes. Said Phillips, quoting a Chinese source:

"The concussion from shell bursts tossed (the planes) around and turned them over so that they were forced to drop their bombs and run for safety without ever approaching a position from which to bomb the carrier."

But sea-going vessels carry heavier guns than three-inch. The idea behind the show is that the United States has barely a pocketful of anti-aircraft guns. The basic weapon is the three-inch gun.

Major Phillips says it will take a surge of public opinion to shake off army lethargy about its defense against air attack.

On The Record

Unreal Quality Seen in Welles' Peace Mission in Europe.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

MR. SUMNER WELLES' grand tour has a quaint and unreal quality about it. It is very correct and formal. One can see Mr. Welles, properly attired in gray pants and a cutaway, entering the proper salons and offices, dining at the proper tables, drinking the proper wines and saying, "We have no doubt, the proper things."

And, of course, wherever he goes there is a proper response (however reserved) in the official if not the actual purpose of his mission. The purpose is ostensibly to express the opinion that the United States would like to see peace and to gather information regarding conditions that the governments would consider for peace.

In fact, the "secret mission," which is about as secret as a Hollywood divorce, has, as was expected, allowed all governments to appear in as reasonable a light as they can arrange for themselves, and thus spread in the United States, a satisfying feeling that all that our government can do for peace is being done. That I have suspected from the first, is the real purpose of this mission; it is certainly recognized as such abroad, and the explanation is to be found in the Illinois primaries rather than in the European capitals.

However, the tour also gives the European belligerents an opportunity for presenting their noble intentions. In Germany and elsewhere all peace overtures are invariably accompanied by vehement denials that any peace short of complete victory is contemplated.

Part of War of Nerves

The peace campaign is also part of the war of nerves, and has the same unreal quality as Mr. Welles' trip—and the same sort of secrecy about it. There is the perennial story of the Goering-army opposition to Hitler; the good-and-bad Nazi theory. It is put over with a conspiratorial air. Emissaries of Gen. Goering—American and neutral industrialists and diplomats—transmit "highly confidential" information to the President of the United States. It is so confidential that it is also transmitted, confidentially of course, to certain members of the American press. So that all knowledgeable students of foreign affairs know about it. This column knows about it, and so do the leading editorial writers on the New York press. But, of course, Mr. Hitler doesn't know it. Goering and Dorothy Thompson share a secret unknown to Hitler. Isn't that silly? Yes, it is. It is idiotic.

The peace advocated by Germany, but advanced by her, whether as a balloon d'essai, or whether as a possible basis for future negotiations, is gravely considered and debated, no doubt in London and Paris and New York over the dinner tables of these "in the know." Perhaps Germany would be willing to restore Bohemia-Moravia and Poland, provided they can remain included in the German "living space." The unreal quality of all the discussion arises from a simple and completely neglected fact—the fact neglected at the dinner-table conversations. This war was not made by the governments of democratic countries.

Germany was plunged into this war by a government whose decisions were subject to no check from the German people whatsoever, but were dictated by one man and his party.

The governments of Britain and France were prepared to let him go ahead. But the people of Britain and France, who still had something to say, were not Chamberlain negotiating with the Nazis until the very last moment before the war began. The proposals now being made were being made to Chamberlain before the war ever began. And Chamberlain was willing to listen to them sympathetically. But he could not propose them in England, because the British people would not listen. As far as Britain and France—yes, and Finland—are concerned, this is a people's war.

Now, since this is a fact, it is well to try to understand what the people, the people of the democracies who insisted that Hitler be stopped, are fighting about. For they will make the decision in the end. If they do not make it at a peace conference or by a decision in arms between nations, they will make it otherwise, in rebellion, yes, even in civil war.

They are not fighting about geography, or colonies, or balances of imperial power. They are not fighting to prevent Germany from being strong. They are fighting to prevent the spread of something that threatens, not only their nations, but their individual existences as human beings. They are fighting for human rights, individual human rights.

Unrequited Love

Our Old Man Made Deep Effects When Its Victims D Into Nearest Saloon.

By DAMON RUNYON

OUR OLD MAN said he had had a study of male victims of unrequited love. A man who hung out in saloons as he had had unlimited opportunity for things. Victims of unrequited love steer at once for the nearest bar.

He said many a man who might be a scoundrel was inclined to look the instant he became a victim of love. Our old man said he estimated that 25 per cent of the bar business of the country was due to unrequited love. The victims like to talk of their cases.

Our old man listened to them at first because he found they were invariably good buyers. He said all you had to do was to make a move to leave and they would say let's have another.

After a while he got interested in them just as patterns of human nature and would listen to them even if they did not buy. He acquired a vast knowledge of the unrequited love. Many of the symptoms amazingly alike in all victims, one identical climate reaction. He said he that in the early stages of unrequited love, no matter how cold the weather the victims felt warm.

Our old man said he took occasional careful observations of five different unrequited love in one bitter winter each case he found this peculiar fever. He said they would come in out with beads of perspiration on their brows.

OUR OLD MAN said it was his opinion that unrequited love was most characteristic of the presence of a favored rival. He occasionally seen victims of that their shoes full of water as a result of excessive perspiration.

He said the victims in cases where existed were generally more stunned thing else. He said they kept saying over again they did not understand it. man said they were the tedious type, victim of unrequited love who could stand with his love was not required a little dull-witted by nature, could suffer just as much as anyone else on human sympathy that few felt so victim of unrequited love. He said sons even seemed to find something about him. He said he thought perhaps appeared had covered this situation who he jests at scars who never felt a scar.

He said the victims of unrequited love, a man sorely hurt, but the trouble could not take him to a hospital or call for emergency treatment as his hurts of the kind that could be cured by science.

OUR OLD MAN said he would not mind at a victim of unrequited love, man with a sprained ankle. He said learned that you have to be a little listening to a victim, however, he said on incautiously remarked, just by filling in a gap in the conversation, object of the victim's affection, he said he was talking about it going to act that way, and the victim kick at him.

Our old man said the best system to say him at intervals, putting variations into the voice such as incredulity may when the victim was relating a girl had done to him after all he had her. He said a few I-knows were not enough, they gave the victim the vague I that you too, had suffered.

Our old man said the only victim quitted love he never liked were the openly shed tears when talking about. Our old man said he had listened to like this nearly every night for two years he happened to notice that the man perspiring a tick, though it was hot weather. Our old man made an investigation, however, that the victim in the case had died a year and 11 months and that posed victim had never cared much anyway. He just liked to dramatize a victim of unrequited love. Our old you had to watch out for that kind. much more common than you might think. (Copyright, 1930, King Features Syndicate.)

Taft Heads The List

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, March 5.—A conservative New Dealer books Senator Taft as their will have to see to it that November's altogether kissed Senator Taft out of the picture. As to the Michigans they doubt he has the steady pull in the stretch, they credit to Taft. His radio voice has improved but, as they view it, not to the level of the Taft, who won a series of radio contests in 1925. Representative T. V. Smith, sparkling liberal.

As to Tom Dewey of New York, they say that no glamour boy from New York can match the glamour of Roosevelt and that anything less would appear third grade to a electorate grown used to such far from glamour as the Roosevelt brand.

As a matter of fact, some of the New have begun to suspect that the country wishing for a bit of calm political life is how come they write Taft into it. Incidentally, they haven't decided their own ranks will be the best man, except Roosevelt himself. They code that Roosevelt is the only one who, or Vandenberg for Dewey, or R. W. Martin, or Frank Gannett, or any for that matter. They are just speculating.

Stage Set for Opening Golden Gloves Bouts Tonight

Ten to 15 Fights on First Card; Over 50 Boxers from Marion and Nearby Towns Entered.

By CHARLES HOSTETTER
Marion Star Sports Editor

NOVICE fisticuff artists from Marion and surrounding section will flail each other with leather-padded fists in tonight's inaugural round of the sixth annual Golden Gloves tournament at the Marion Steam Shovel gym.

The ring show will open at 8 p. m., and officers in charge have promised spectators a card comprised of 10 to 15 elimination bouts. The session is the first of three to select finalists for championship bouts to be held March 14.

More than 50 amateur fighters had filed registration blanks up to last night's entry deadline and the list was expected to be increased by nearly a score during today, officials said. Majority of the entrants are local youths, while others hail from Caledonia, Waldo, Richmond, Morral, Bucyrus, Ashland, Delaware and Columbus.

Lightweights Plentiful

The lightweight division, for 135-pounders, drew the heaviest entry group, an even dozen contestants shooting for the crown. Eleven youths are listed as welterweights, seven each in the bantam and middle divisions, and others scattered between the 112-pound flyweight class and 185-pound heavyweights.

Listed among the group is one mystery entry, a youth who signed his registration blank, Marvin Paul Lovell. The aspirant to ring glory listed neither his age, weight or address, but officials reported that he will be given a chance to participate when he appears on the scene tonight.

All the fighters will be weighed-in late today at the Y. M. C. A., and any who are more than ten pounds above the weight limit for their class will be moved into a higher division. Pairings for the bouts will be made shortly before the programs open.

Full Cards Assured

Elimination rounds will be held tonight, Thursday and next Tuesday night. The heavy of entries, which compares favorably with the roster of fighters in previous tournaments, assures a full card for each show, officials pointed out. Winners, in addition to being crowned champions in their respective divisions, will be eligible to compete in the district meet at Springfield.

Listed below are the entries filed up to last night's deadline. Classification of the youths in various divisions is not definite until after they weigh-in.

Entry List

The fighters are:

Heavyweights—Clarence Hatcher, John Jackson and Bill Hook, all of Richmond; Paul Harding of Caledonia; James Pfeiffer, Otto Scott, Harold Chapman, Carl Granger and Gordon Thompson, all of Marion; Clarence Adkins of Bucyrus.

Middleweights—William Fowler, Kenneth Bates, James Casperson, Lester Roberts, Henry Miller and Joseph Benedetto, all of Marion; and James Presbiter of Waldo.

Light Heavyweights—Carl Wexley and Frank Young of Marion and Thomas Walker of Caledonia.

Heavyweights—Russell Mendenhall of Delaware and Lee Wilson of Columbus.

Fast Claridon Squad Boasts Both League and Tourney Titles.

CLARIDON High school's basketball team, insubmersible against county competition, today took on its laurels after winning the Marion county league and tourney titles and winding up its schedule with 18 victories and three defeats.

Only three teams managed to stop the fast-stepping crew tutored by Coach A. B. Augenstein. Claridon bowed to Harper on the latter's court, lost a mid-season game to Marion St. Mary and was eliminated from district tourney warfare by Marysville.

Only one senior occupies the team which today occupies the Marion county cage pinnacle. Only one member of the squad, Robert Sims, the county's high scorer, is a senior. Two are juniors, Harry Holler and Richard Price, while one freshman, Robert Mayer, broke into the line-up, and others on the roster are sophomores.

Consistently among the county's leading teams, Claridon was rated along with three or four others as potential champions at the start of the season. They managed to produce results from the very start, walloping the hapless Meeker team, 60-22, to launch the season. Breezing through 10 more league contests Claridon snared

By The Associated Press
TORONTO, March 5.—Clever Lou Salica, champion of the bantamweights in 1935, showed his ability still to hold his own with the best of the division when he battled to a 15-round draw last night with champion George Pace of Cleveland.

Some of the crowd of 8,300 at Maple Leaf Gardens thought Salica, a New York veteran of the boxing wars, had earned a slight margin by his strong finish, but ringers held that things were evened up by Pace's whipping right and his ability to fend off Lou's constant flurry of punches.

A 9 to 5 favorite, he got about $3,500 from the gate of slightly more than $10,000. Salica's share was just over $2,200.

KIRKPATRICK WINS

Kirkpatrick' independent eagles racked up a pair of victories at Byhalia Saturday night. The Marion county first-stringers won, 49-36, and the reserves, 24-16. Monnette packed Kirkpatrick in the main game by lulling 15 points, being ably supported by Beers and L. Hart, who connected for 12 apiece.

OHIO STATE IGNORED ON BIG 10 HONORARY

Hapac and Beretta Unanimous Choices for All-Star Team.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, March 5.—Bill Hapac of Illinois and Fred Beretta of Purdue were acclaimed the Big Ten's most brilliant basketball players today by the coaches in their annual selection of an all-star team for the Associated Press.

Both players, captains of their respective teams, were unanimous choices of the 10 conference coaches for spots on the first team. Hapac at forward and Beretta at guard, Hapac is the league's leading scorer and Beretta is generally considered to be the top guard in the entire circuit. Both are seniors.

Hapac set a new single game scoring record when he hit the net for 31 points against Minnesota. He missed the first game of the season, but came close to the all-time season's scoring record of 124 points by Jewell Young of Purdue.

The other forward post went to Paul (Curly) Armstrong, Indiana junior and mainstay of the Hoosier attack.

Beretta's running mate at guard is Dick Klein of Northwestern, only sophomore to make the team.

The center spot went to Gene England of Wisconsin after a hot battle fight with Jim Rae of Michigan. England is a junior.

Indiana and Michigan placed two men each and Purdue one on the second team. Don Blanken, sophomore, and Bill Henke, Indiana were named forwards, Rae, center, and Charles Pink and Bob Dro, Michigan and Indiana, respectively, at guards.

The outstanding oddity of the coaches' selections was the absence of an Ohio State player, despite the fact the Buckeyes finished high in the race. Bob Lynch, Ohio State guard and captain, however, led vote-getters on his squad with five ballots, two less than Dro and three less than Pink.

Higami Uses "Sleep" Hold Quiet Hagen in Shovel B

Interest in Higami's "sleep" hold, which the Japanese batter used to subdue Jack Hagen of Sarsenport, La., overshadowed the rough victory scored by Boston's Gil LaCrosse at the expense of Billy Rayburn of Atlanta, Ga., during last night's mat show at the Marion Steam Shovel gymnasium.

Higami dropped the first fall and then staged a comeback to whip his ill-tempered foe in two straight. He sent Hagen to slumberland in the second and continued him only in time to continue the third and decisive round.

Hagen held the husky Jap in a head lock and traded it for a headlock to set the pace the first 14 minutes. Higami to the canvas and initial round at the 15 minutes with a conventional press.

The second round was a close one when Higami, with his "sleep" grip, gripped his opponent and what appeared to be a combination chin-heel Higami made the hapless Hagen, and Hagen's fall into the mat.

Higami immediately revived his rival but mentioned him to the room. For six minutes Higami stretched full-length on the mat, peacefully. Hagen turned to snap Hagen at the dream-world role and on to beat the tough third.

Hagen was well on his scoring the final fall with a hold but the wily Jap too to freedom and pinned Jap the same motion. The rough timed at 2:15.

Rayburn No Tough Billy Rayburn, may be great gangfighter, a hero crowd and an aggressive fighter, but he's no match for the tough Gil LaCrosse, taking two straight falls, the first one by forcing LaCrosse to concede on a hammerlock the second with a cre. They were timed at 19 minutes, respectively.

The preliminary bout of return of reliable Buck of Terre Haute, Ind., who absent from the local many months. He battled 20 minutes with Lefty New York City in the 1st round.

Finns Will Take Serious Setback

In Fall of Viipuri

The Finnish fight which the Finns have been holding for so long in the face of the Russian attacks from the east, is a strategic importance of the key position to the Mannerheim line of defense. The Finns have been holding the line ever since the Russian invasion three years ago.

SCHOOL BOARD

February meeting and at a called meeting later in the month.

However, a letter dated March 1 from R. H. Markwith, state director of health, in response to a letter from the clerk asking whether the board could make an outright gift of money to the health department, was passed around for all board members to read.

In the letter the state director wrote: "I am of the opinion it would not be legal for the school board to make an outright gift. However the school board could enter into an agreement with the health department whereby the board of education could pay a portion of the salary to designated employees of the board of health."

Survey Arranged

The board agreed to take bids on blinds for the Oakland Heights school and to make a survey at the Greenwood building relative to basement toilet conditions, other plumbing and the heating system.

Two members of the Greenwood Parent-Teacher association, H. L. Dowler and Eugene Willey, president-elect, appeared before the board and presented a paper signed by Mrs. H. E. Bracy, president, asking that the survey be made.

Henry Wade, 43, of 328 Reed avenue was hired to succeed the late Mr. Crouse as custodian of the North Main street building. His term of employment was for a balance of the school year.

Board members said they had been visited by a number of applicants over the week-end and Pearl Selts, superintendent of buildings and grounds, said that "six or eight" more men had filed applications yesterday.

During Mr. Crouse's illness the job has been temporarily held by A. W. McColey, retired Marion policeman.

Miss Betty Wheaton of 218 South Seffner avenue was employed as secretary at the Edison building to succeed Miss Myers who was married recently. Miss Wheaton was graduated from Harding High school last June.

Leave Granted

The board granted a leave of absence to Miss Maunula Yeagle, first grade teacher at the Glenwood building, upon her request to be permitted to continue her training at Ohio State university during the spring and summer months.

Mr. Hudson pointed out to the board that since her leave will start with the beginning of the week's spring vacation on March 29 her position will be filled by a substitute for only 10 weeks, whereas if the leave was denied it would be necessary for her to be absent from the school system for a longer period next year.

Football Report

The Harding High school football season was closed with all bills paid and a balance of $432.05 according to the report of E. H. Shade, treasurer of Harding High school funds, despite a deficit of $633.31 in September of 1935.

Receipts for the 1935 season totaled $3,870.42, consisting of $3,750.42 from ticket sales, $170 from rentals on stadium lights and $50 from N. C. O. basketball and football championships.

Disbursements were listed as follows: Repairs of equipment, $8.19; football shoes purchased, $107.91; telephone bills, $32.64; meals on out-of-town trips, $28.58; insurance on school safe, $8.24; expenses on athletic field, $40.21; Honors and Cooper druggists, bill, $41.93; Owen Cressap cash, $38.02; state tax on admissions, $36.50; Marion-Reserve Power Co. for current, $128.82; football banquet and speaker, $86.24; physicians' bills, $190.50; transportation bill, $71.58; N. C. O. league dues for 1935 and 1940, $24; football charms, $77.23; supplies and equipment, $612.45; cost of all home games, $799; replacing of light bulbs at stadium, $323.09; building of ticket booth, $22.23; telephone tolls, $51.69; scouting, $28.51; cost of reserve games, transportation, etc., $102.82; cleaning of uniforms, $30; incidentals, $5. Disbursements, together with the deficit totalled $3,518.37.

The library report, which already has been made public, was filed with the clerk.

Mr. Hudson, who attended the recent convention of the American Association of School Administrators and Affiliated Organizations at St. Louis, Mo., at which 15,000 delegates were registered, presented the board with three successive copies of "The Gist," the association's special newspaper issued during the convention and covering activities of the various sections.

Fire Insurance Rate Boost Looms

bureau has warned of inadequacy of the fire alarm system.

Statement by Fire Chief

The situation was reviewed in considerable detail recently by Chief McFarland in his annual report and in an interview today on the possibility of raising of the city.

He listed the minimum needs for maintaining the present rating as follows:

1. New aerial truck with 85-foot ladder. Cost $18,000. It would replace the present aerial truck bought in 1916 and equipped with a 75-foot ladder. The present machine would be used for reserve.
2. Two new pumper trucks at a cost of about $9,300 each. They would replace two other trucks, one bought in 1912 and one in 1915, both of which would probably be abandoned. One of them is now in regular use and the other is used for reserve duty.
3. Equipment for the trucks. Cost $2,000.
4. New lighting plant, to supplement the present small hand lanterns in fighting fires. Cost $350.
5. Acetylene torch. (None in department now. Used for cutting iron-barred windows and the like.) Cost $300.
6. Fog nozzles. (None in department now. Used for fighting gas and oil fires, throwing a fine spray. Also used in other types of fires, reducing water damage sharply.) Cost $35 or $40 each.
7. Improvements in fire alarm system. Cost 20,000 or so. The system now has 19 boxes, 30 of the four-round type and 49 of the modern 15-round type. The four-round type, many of them originally installed in 1896, are not dependable and in certain circumstances a fire could be reported at one of them and never be received at the fire station. The 15-round type prevents this situation.

The switch board and equipment at the central station is also old and undependable and should be replaced. The chief also feels there should be an extension of underground cables.

Need of More Men

The six new men are needed in order to comply with the National Board's requirements and still meet a recently effective state law, setting up a 72-hour week for firemen. At present the department is operating on a 72-hour week but in order to do so it has been forced to reduce the number of men on duty at any one time.

The six new men, after a period of probation, would receive $152.50 a month salary each, running about $10,000 a year.

The chief's annual report brought out several points concerning the department.

Present Situation

There are now 32 men—the chief, a mechanic, six captains and 24 firemen. Salaries in 1935 totaled $58,257. Total expenses for the year were $61,316.46.

Total value of fire department property is $64,895. Values listed for some of the familiar equipment are: chief's car, $680; fire alarm truck (vintage of 1916), no value; aerial truck, $1,700; No. 1 pumper, $3,000; others $100 and $4,085; Central station building, $13,880; West side station, $8,500; Mark street station, $10,440.

Gasoline Cost High

The report shows that many of the machines get little more than a mile or two out of a gallon of gasoline.

There were 285 calls during the year, 225 by telephone, 31 by alarm boxes, 10 by box and 29 by telephone.

The fire loss in 1935 was $38,695.09, an increase of $3,104.66 over 1934. The average for the last five years was $32,035.33.

Value of buildings and contents involved in fires was $857,508. The loss was $36,044. The loss on automobiles was $2,290.

Value of buildings and contents not insured was $23,000. Loss on uninsured buildings and contents was $1,320.

Insurance on buildings and contents involved in fires amounted to $526,920.

MALLON

Third terms are promoting the impression that President Roosevelt is the only man to handle the present international problem. This is manifestly a glib political statement not based on fact. Practically all the candidates are capable, but in addition Hull has been proving his capability in this respect for years.

What he would do for world peace as president is evident from his own words:

"If I were president of the United States I should, at a later and suitable date, propose to the governments of all commercial nations that at the close of the present European war an international trade conference be held in the city of Washington for the purpose of establishing a permanent international trade congress, the function and duty of such congress to comprise the consideration of all international trade methods, practices, and policies which in their effects are calculated to create destructive commercial controversies or bitter economic wars, and to formulate agreements with respect thereto, designed to eliminate and avoid the injurious results and dangerous possibilities of economic warfare, and to promote fair and friendly trade relations among all the nations of the world."

He said this in a speech before the house, July 8, 1916, and is repeating it in private today.

HATCH BILL STARTS BATTLE IN SENATE

Extension of Measure Meeting Opposition.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The senate became involved today in a free-for-all political argument over broadening or curtailing the Hatch act.

Senator Hatch (D-N. M.), who sponsored the controversial act last year, proposed extension of its ban on political activity by the rank and file of federal employees to include those state workers such as highway engineers who are paid in part with federal funds.

Senator Miller (D-Ark.) countered with an amendment to repeal the restrictions on federal workers.

"If the Miller amendment is adopted," Hatch said, "it will mean the absolute defeat of the Democratic party in 1940. Repeal of that provision would lose many thousands more votes than employees could gain."

But Miller replied that the present Hatch act would "run the Democratic party" by preventing "voluntary" political activities by federal workers.

There is no reason why a federal attorney or a collector of internal revenue, Miller told reporters, "should not have as much right as any other citizen to make a speech or attend a political meeting."

Hatch said that the vote on his broadening amendment probably would be close.

Before the senate called up the Hatch proposals its commerce committee arranged to vote on a resolution suggesting that the questions regarding personal income be eliminated from the 1940 census. The resolution, by Senator Tobey (R-N. H.), was approved 3 to 2 yesterday by a commerce subcommittee. Tobey said that unless the full committee and the senate also approved, "it is going to be dynamite for somebody."

MOTORIST ARRESTED

Charles H. King, 23, of South Haven, Mich., was arrested by police yesterday afternoon on a charge of driving a car bearing 1936 Michigan license plates which became outdated March 1. He was released on bond to appear before Municipal Judge Hazen this afternoon.

MEETING CHANGED

A meeting of the Woman's Benefit association will be held at the home of Mrs. Helen Snyder of 191 Carbury street Wednesday afternoon instead of at the home of Mrs. Emma Layton on North Main street as previously planned. Mrs. Eva Knudson of Cleveland, state deputy, will be a guest.

MAE MURRAY RULED A "FIT MOTHER"

Awards Her $400 a Month from Mdivani.

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, March 5.—Mae Murray, 38, was ruled a "fit mother" by Judge George Dock-son, who awarded her $400 a month from her ex-husband's estate, looking forward to regaining custody of her 13-year-old son, Koran, 13.

The star of silent films as she learned, in a Hollywood apartment, to make money to support her child, was successful. "All my hopes and dreams to regain my boy have been in vain," she said.

She said she certainly enjoyed her child under the protection of the court. "There has not been any evidence introduced to show that I am not a fit mother," she said.

Hospital Staff at Delaware Names Abandoned Baby

Special to The Star

DELAWARE, O., March 5.—Ethyl Suzanne is the name selected yesterday afternoon by the Jane M. Case hospital staff for a two-day-old girl found abandoned in a market basket about midnight Sunday near the Robinson filling station, a short distance northeast of Delaware.

The baby, wrapped in cotton and placed in a market basket lined with tissue paper and covered with a sheet of plain wrapping paper, was found near a well by Zeke Robinson, Sheriff M. F. Pinney reported.

Sheriff Pinney took the baby to the hospital where it was found that she was apparently in good health except for a slight cold.

Hospital attaches reported it was evident the baby had been given proper medical attention at birth. Mr. Robinson said he went outside his filling station to get some wood and heard strange sounds, which upon investigation disclosed the baby in the basket.

No note or anything else about the basket or baby gave officials any means of identification, according to the sheriff. He said authorities would attempt to find a good home for the baby.

People of Sinking Town Accept Fate in Stoical Manner

By The Associated Press

SHELANDOAH, Pa., March 5.—A strange calm—admixture of suspense and stoicism—pervaded this coal town today in the aftermath of the most widespread series of cave-ins in the history of Pennsylvania's anthracite fields.

Less than 24 hours after rumbling noises and cracking walls, virtually all the 2,000 persons who evacuated a 16-block area were back home and in bed.

The earth's surface sagged anew under the town today. Slowly and undramatically, in scattered sections of a 16-block area, cracks widened in walls and pavements.

Early today some residents of the cave-in section—most heavily populated part of this community of 21,000—heard faint rumblings much like those that sent 2,000 fleeing threatened buildings early yesterday.

Warned the subsidence might continue sporadically for weeks and possibly months while their homes slowly sink into the earth, the folk who know the hard toll of mining and the peril of cave-in took steps to recover damages tentatively estimated at $1,000,000.

Governor Lends Aid
Governor Arthur H. James pushed an inquiry into the disturbance that took no lives, but played havoc with property—homes and business buildings—ruptured gas mains, buckled street and impaired water service.

Chief victims of the subsidence were a dozen persons sickened by escaping gas fumes. Rushing here from the state capitol at Harrisburg James directed state officials and mine company experts to tour today the honeycomb of mine tunnels beneath Sheleandoh, which is situated on a mountain slope.

James remarked that "by strange coincidence" his attention was called Sunday night to a peilillon from 300 Sheleandoh residents asking that the state bureau of mines investigate recent mining operations in the area.

The governor was unable to say what property owners could reasonably expect in the way of reparations. "The state has jurisdiction," he explained, "only over mine matters that affect the safety of miners."

UNION CO. DRIVER FINED

Edgar Shark, 20, of near Richwood was arrested by State Patrolmen W. C. Corder and T. B. Morgan yesterday afternoon on a charge of failure to stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Route 47 and the York Center road two miles west of Richwood. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Parish of Richwood and was fined $5 and costs.

ILLNESS CLOSES SCHOOL

By The Associated Press
LORAIN, O., March 5.—Prevalence of mumps and chickenpox in the district gave 800 pupils of the Brookside school at nearby Sheffield a vacation this week. The school, closed last week after 53 pupils were taken ill, was scheduled to reopen yesterday. Eighteen new cases led officials to delay reopening until next Monday.

ABANDONED MINE CAVES IN AND SECTION OF CITY SINKS

A group of wide-eyed Shenandoah, Pa., school children gather about a crevice in the earth, one of the cracks which caused a six-block segment of the city, built over an abandoned anthracite mine, to sink slowly into the mine workings. There was no loss of life or injury. (International Illustrated News Photo.)

creep toward the buildings on the farm. Mr. Hecker, fearing that flood waters might some time reach his home, which is about a quarter of a mile from the river, several years ago had expressed the fear that the family might be trapped by water during a flood. His son-in-law, John Reidel of Agosta, had offered to build a boat for him, and this was done to provide the family a means of escape if water should ever surround their home. The boat, mounted on wheels, ordinarily was kept in a barn but when the flood waters came up yesterday, Mr. Hecker had pushed it out into the barnyard to have it more readily available in case of need.

The boat caught the eyes of Donald's five schoolmates as they paused at the Hecker home on their way to the river.

Responded to Pleas
"How about taking us a boat ride," one of them called out to Donald, who before that had been urging his grandfather to take him a ride, joined the others in their plea. Mr. Hecker said he resitated to go, but with the six boys pleading with him and two of them assuring him that they had paddled boats before, he finally consented. Donald, eager for the ride, had even climbed into the boat in the barnyard in anticipation of the ride.

They wheeled the boat down the road along a highway guard-rail that lines the approaches to the bridge and, with the help of Sam Schwaderer of near Agosta, managed to lift the boat over the guardrail and lower it into the water. Mr. Hecker and the six boys jumped in and two of the boys took oars and started paddling.

Caught in Current
"We weren't going anywhere in particular—just sight seeing," one of the boys said this morning. "The water had covered large areas of the fields along the normal river bank, and we paddled along for 10 or 15 minutes, all the time getting closer to the bridge. Mr. Hecker said we'd better steer back toward the place we started from, so we started to swing the boat around. Just as we were turning the front end of the boat was caught by the swift current leading under the bridge, and we lost control of the boat. It was carried toward the bridge. The water was so high that it was only a foot or two beneath the level of the bridge. We knew the boat couldn't go under the bridge, and saw it was going to crash.

Richwood Driver Held
TO COUNTY GRAND JURY
J. M. Cushman Bound Over After Accident.
James M. Cushman, 62, of Richwood was bound over to the Union county grand jury on a reckless driving charge yesterday in connection with an accident at Commerceville Friday night in which a car allegedly driven by Mr. Cushman figured.

Mr. Cushman entered a plea of not guilty before Justice of the Peace J. C. Hartzshorn at Marysville and was released under $300 bond pending action by the grand jury. The charge was filed by Mark Hannah of Lorain, driver of the other car. Mr. Hannah told state patrolmen the Cushman car failed to stop for a stop sign and was traveling at high speed.

MANY PERSONS
ARE LOOKING FOR FARMS TO RENT
So if you have any size farm, and are looking for a new tenant be sure and read the ads under classification 41. Today a party is willing to rent a 50 to 75 acre farm and is willing to pay cash rent.

Then under classification 31 a party wants to buy 50 head of good shoats weighing between 70 and 80 lbs. If you can fill this order be sure and get in contact with him at once for it will save you the expense of trucking them to market and paying commission to some livestock sales company.

A team of gray geldings and harness is being offered for sale very reasonable by the advertiser under classification 35.

If you have any livestock for sale, or if in the market for livestock do as your neighbor does advertise in the want ad columns to assure yourself of quick result getting action.

FLOOD WATERS
between Maumee and Waterville remained closed. Observers saw little chance of an Ohio river flood. The stream was expected to reach a 41-foot crest tomorrow, against flood stage of 52.

In Other Areas
In the North Atlantic States utility companies and property owners today estimated in the millions the damage left by the worst rain and sleet storm in a quarter of a century. Public and private emergency crews worked all night to patch economic life lines—crippled communication and power systems, interrupted fire-alarm circuits, and blocked traffic.

The most apparent damage was in northern New Jersey, New York City and suburban Westchester county and Long Island areas, which were on the fringe of the $500,000,000 storm of 1935, the greatest in the history of the nation.

A recent patent covers an attachment for a motor vehicle which is designed to permit the driver to open a window without leaving the car.

MORROW CO. SCHOOL HEAD SPEAKS HERE

Story of Alvin York Told at Lions Club Meeting.

The story of Sgt. Alvin C. York was told by Frank E. Honnold, superintendent of the Morrow county schools, at a luncheon meeting of the Marion Lions club at Hotel Harding yesterday.

Mr. Honnold, who has made a study of Sgt. York's background and career, traced his ancestry back to the days of the pioneer development of Kentucky and Tennessee and gave a detailed account of York's record in the World War.

One of York's ancestors was a companion of Daniel Boone and founded the city of Jamestown, Tenn., where the World War hero now lives. Generation after generation, the York family has been famous for pioneering and fighting until their history has become almost legendary in Tennessee, Mr. Honnold explained.

During the World War Sgt. York received decorations from all of the Allies for his almost unparalleled record of bravery and self-sacrifice. He is credited for capturing 22 German machine guns and 133 prisoners single-handed.

At present Sgt. York lives quietly in Jamestown, Tenn., devoting virtually his entire time to philanthropy. With the money he has received from inheritances, his writings, lecture tours and as gifts from thousands of admirers he has developed his home town into one of the most progressive and best equipped cities in the South. Among his many contributions to the community are schools, highways, welfare institutions and parks.

Guests at the luncheon meeting were L. L. Garver of Mt. Gilead and Harold Compton.

all extraordinary powers he now holds which should rest with congress.

11. Guard carefully the independence of the three departments of government.

12. Promote better international relations and leave the people of other countries the right to determine for themselves their form of government.

13. Adopt a constitutional amendment limiting the term of the president to eight years and one to protect the supreme court against change except by constitutional amendment.

14. Withdraw the government from private business and from competition with private enterprise.

15. Promote a policy of abundance instead of a policy of scarcity.

16. Bring into government service able, successful business men, leaders of agriculture and labor. (Today there isn't a successful business man within a mile of the White House.)

17. As soon as possible, without restricting recovery by higher taxes or by arbitrary curtailment of relief, balance the budget.

CONCERT

her university days she was director of the Women's Glee club, sometimes conducting in the absence of the maestro. She filled her first radio engagements before her school days were finished.

Following her graduation she went to New York to continue more serious study of music, working in musical comedy, singing in churches and filling in as a non-paid guest on the radio.

Then came the days when she worked in trios on the air. At one time she worked on four different programs a week. Through the Firestone Chorus she became a soloist on one of the most distinguished programs on the air. She has worked on this program for five years, meanwhile appearing on concerts throughout America and Europe.

The singer's father and mother both sing and play the piano. One brother is an excellent pianist and two cousins became professional singers. Oley Speaks, an uncle, is the composer of "Mandala," "Sylvia," "Morning" and a number of other songs which are rooted in the foundation of American musical life.

Two other motorists, Mrs. Marie Gast, 43, of 938 North Main street and Lawrence Hollis, 55, who was arrested recently on a drunken driving charge, changed previous pleas of not guilty to pleas of guilty before Judge Hazen yesterday. Each was fined $100 and costs and their driving rights were suspended for six months.

SAWYER WON'T SEEK OHIO SENATE SEAT

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, March 5.—Charles Sawyer, the Democratic national committeeman, headed for Columbus and a scheduled party conference today with the assertion "I'm not a candidate for the (U. S.) senatorship."

Commenting on Sen. Donahay's decision to retire from office, Sawyer said, "I, along with many others, am sorry to learn he does not intend to run for reelection."

In view of the fact that he puts his decision upon personal grounds, no further discussion would seem to be in order.

SIX HIGH OFFICIALS INDICTED IN DETROIT

Wayne County Prosecutor and Sheriff Accused.

By The Associated Press
DETROIT, March 5.—Six high public officials of Wayne county (Detroit) including Sheriff Thomas F. Wilcox and Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea were indicted today by Judge Homer Ferguson, sitting as a one-man grand jury investigating gambling and graft.

The indictments charged conspiracy to operate, or permit the operation of, disorderly houses, gambling houses, handbooks and policy games.

Forty-five other persons were named in the indictment, six of them "John Does."

McCrea and Wilcox are already under indictment by the grand jury on charges of conspiracy to protect or operate a $1,000,000-a-year baseball pool in Detroit.

The indictments followed by only a few hours an attempt by McCrea's men to invade the grand jury headquarters. Judge Ferguson, calling out police riot squads for protection, charged that McCrea was seeking to seize the grand jury's records and prevent a court examination of the earlier indictment tomorrow.

Taken into custody by Coroner Albert A. Hughes according to ancient legal custom, Sheriff Wilcox was escorted from his residence to the courthouse today for arraignment.

Shortly afterward McCrea, and his chief investigator, Harry Colburn, appeared voluntarily at police headquarters and Bernard E. McGrath, chief deputy sheriff was brought in by detective Inspector Charles E. Searle. All, with Carl Stabler, chief of the civil division of the sheriff's office; Albert J. Glorak, president of Grand Pointe Park, a suburb, and 43 other persons were named in the indictment.

BRITISH PRESS SEES CABINET SHIFT DUE

By The Associated Press
LONDON, March 5.—With the censored press predicting a second cabinet shake-up since the war's start, growing British concern over the supply ministry's conduct of its $64,000,000-a-week purchases was reflected today in the assembly of the war office secret court.

While London papers generally agreed that Supply Minister Leslie Burgin was one of three cabinet members who would be dropped by Prime Minister Chamberlain, the court met to question an unnamed war office official reported to have recommended a discharged convict to the supply office as a contractors' agent.

There were reports Scotland Yard had completed an investigation of the entire wartime contracting system. Other developments included the dismissal of three supply ministry employees.

The two cabinet members mentioned with Burgin as being slated for dismissal are Sir Kingsley Wood, air minister, and Lord Hankey, minister without portfolio.
